Union Jacks Smother Magrath Lions 50-14 Score

A crowded Opera House was on hand Wednesday night to witness the Senior League Basketball game between Magrath Lions and Raymond Union Jacks. Magrath fans were here 100 or more strong, and Stirling also had a good representation as their team was here to play against the Idlers, the local quint winning this preliminary skirmish 31-40 after a hectic 40 minutes of play. In the first half the score was Stirling 9, Idlers 25, but the visitors found their range in the second half and commenced turning on the heat, and the Idlers had to play ball all the time to keep the game in their favor.

The final score in the fixture between the Jacks and Lions was a surprise even to the Jacks. This is the fourth time this season these two teams have met. Two games were played in Magrath, both of which Magrath won. In the other one played here earlier in the season the Jacks won, and last night, after the final whistle, the Jacks were wondering how they had done it, and the visitors were wondering what it was all about.

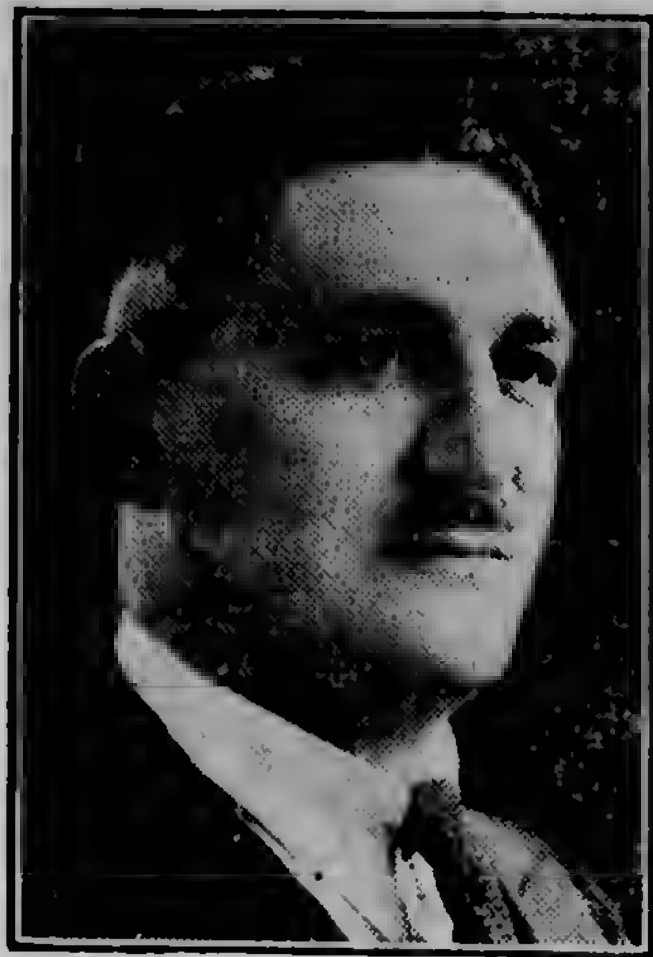

Playing an airtight defence from the first whistle the Jacks held the visitors scoreless during the first 2½ minutes of play, while they netted three beautiful field baskets. Then for the next stretch up to 6 minutes, the score stood Raymond 11, Magrath 1, having counted a foul shot. The play kept on and at half time the score was Raymond 22, Magrath 5, three foul points and one field basket.

After the breather the same airtight defence was kept up. All Magrath could see when they got the ball was legs and arms in front of them until it is likely they had a nightmare over them. When they shot it was on the run, or off balance because of the steady attack of the Jacks, and when the final whistle blew they had netted four field goals and six points on fouls.

Donny Nilsson led the field in points raking in 17, having peppered the north basket in the second half unmercifully and being there to bat in the rebounds. Besides this he kept his man covered like a blanket all night and the only points Blumel made were a couple of field goals near the end of the game when the game was salted away and the regulars slowed down a bit and the subs were used. Butler was the bad boy of the crew fouling off with about five minutes to go.

Never in the Jacks history have they played such defence as was exhibited Wednesday evening and it seems to be the popular opinion that if they played that brand of ball all the time they would go a long ways in any playoff series. Attacking like wildfire and checking like demons the visitors were literally swept off their feet. The fans enjoyed it and likely the revenge was sweet for the Jacks.

Magrath kept right on fighting till the last whistle. Despite the one-sided score, the visitors capitalized on every opening and were doing their best. They were badly off in their shooting and shot after shot, that looked like a sure counter rolled off the hoop into the hands of the waiting Jacks. Play in and around the baskets was close and rather rough at times, but both teams kept their heads and played ball all night. Congratulations to Magrath for playing ball all the way.

ANNUAL MEETING OF M. D. HELI

The annual meeting of Sugar City M. D. No. 37 was held in the Town Hall Saturday afternoon with only a small attendance present. The auditor's statement was read and the financial condition of the district analyzed showing a substantial balance in the bank besides a good balance of assets over liabilities. Questions were asked and satisfactorily answered.

Expiration of the term for F. W. Romeril of Raymond and Lon Nelson of Stirling resulted in acclamations, these two going back in without opposition. The report of the Councilman showed a great deal of new road building having been done in the past two years. Fred Romeril reporting that in his district alone about 50 miles of good high graded road was now built, and he was hopeful that inasmuch as most corners of the district were now pretty well served with graded roads that more attention might be paid now to upkeep.

Jos. Y. Card of Cardston was a Raymond visitor Thursday.

Cardinal Pacelli, Papal Secretary of State for several years past was elected to succeed Pope Pius XI in the third ballot at Vatican City on Thursday. He chose the name of Pius XII. He is the 262nd Pope of the Roman Catholic Church and was elected on his birthday. He was wildly cheered by the huge crowds of people when he appeared on the balcony shortly after the announcement of his selection.

Wilson Rolfson and Dean Bennett from Magrath had the whistles and kept the game well in hand tooting up 10 fouls on Magrath and 13 on Raymond.

Following is the lineup and score:

LIONS: Merkley 1; Bourne 1; Blumel 4; Turner; L. Harker; R. Harker; Coleman; Hamilton 3; Toomer 3; Karren 2. Total 14.

JACKS: Nalder 6; Fairbanks 7; Shaw; Stone 2; Nilson 17; Turner 10; Rolfson 6; Heggie; Galbraith 2; King. Total 50.

Calgary will be here Saturday night in an exhibition game, a return game for one the Jacks played there during the coldest of our winter weather. This is a Budget ticket game.

Stake Social Is Greatly Enjoyed

The Taylor Stake Social held Monday night in the old Stake house, preceding its dismantling to make room for the erection of the new Stake and Ward house, was very enjoyable and a good crowd was present to participate in the events of the evening.

The committee responsible for the programme and arrangements were Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Allred the former as Chairman, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Mendenhall and Mr. and John Salmon and a fine program was climaxed with a basket lunch and lemonade provided by the First Ward Mutuals.

The program opened with the singing of "Come, Come Ye Saints" led by Geo. E. Court. Raymond's first Choir leader with Chris Tollestrup, one of the first organists of the original ward at the console. Thos. Mendenhall an old-timer of the district offered prayer and "Now Let Us Rejoice" was the next song.

Stake Pres. T. Geo. Wood spoke of the plans now in hand for the dismantling of this old purposes well, to make room for a modern building for the Stake purposes and also for the Raymond 1st Ward. In this move local authorities were acting on the advice of the general authorities of the Church, and he hoped that none would feel that the sentiments and memories for which the building had stood through all these years was being sacrificed without any thought of these things. But, as all things outgrow their years of usefulness and are replaced, so it was with our Stake House.

O. Raymond Knight, son of Jesse Knight founder of Raymond, and the man after whom the town was named spoke of the activities of his father in 1901 in buying up over 300,000 acres of land here and entering into agreement with the old A.R. & L. to plow three thousand acres of land before freeze up that fall. At one time there were 80 teams plowing at one time in and around Raymond, and by fall there were 4,000 acres broken, most of which had been done with walking plows. He spoke of some of the prophecies of Apostle John W. Taylor in the early days of Raymond and of their fulfillment in our day. When the old part of the Stake House was built you could let down the cutter bar of a mower and cut hay knee high for miles in any direction. What a change in 37 years, and all for the better said the speaker.

F. R. Taylor and his Male Quartette sang "Pals."

Thos. Mendenhall called for a census of the congregation by years from 1887 on. J. W. Evans and A. E. Fawns spoke representing early bishoprics of the Ward and Mrs. C. R. Wing spoke representing the original Presidency. All these speakers told some very interesting stories of pioneer days and experiences in Raymond, and those present learned much of early history in Raymond.

Ronda Dahl and Glen Stanford both gave comic numbers. Wm. Schmidt gave some impersonations and Geo. E. Court read from the first edition of the first newspaper ever published in Raymond.

C. B. Strong spoke of music in Raymond's early history, and a collection was taken after which lunch was served and an hour enjoyed in visiting and chatting.

D. B. Watson is busy on the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Warren L. Jones, located across the street east from Ira McBride.

P. J. Christensen, Raymond pioneer and highly respected citizen was ill for a couple of days last week but is around again now. It's hard to keep the old fellows down.

Stirling's new Social Hall is being opened tonight with a dance and quite a number of Raymond people are there celebrating with our neighbors. Next Wednesday they are presenting a four act drama in the Hall. Workmen from here who have labored on the hall are loud in their praise of its roominess and arrangement.

Business Changes

Each season brings its business changes, and the approach of spring is no exception. The Hawkins Bros. Roy and Bill have taken a lease on the service station of S. B. Card and Son to last at least for the remainder of this year and likely longer. They took over on Wednesday March 1st, and will continue the operation of an up-to-date Service Station and will likely extend the repair department of the business which has been limited so far.

Stewart is extending his bulk hauling, having contracted with the British American to do all of their hauling for Lethbridge Cardston, Pincher Creek and Raymond.

He has two trucks going night and day now, having purchased a new one last week, and hopes between now and fall to have moved at least 150,000 gallons of gas and oil from Calgary to B.A. distributing points in Southern Alberta. The B.A. is localizing their storage tanks at a few points in the district, and from these points their dealers like Raymond, are supplied to their underground tanks, instead of the company keeping two or three bulk storage tanks in each small town. Stewart states that this is the policy being inaugurated by many of the big companies in the United States and that it seems to be working out very well. Bill Reber and Boothe Card and Grant Card and Casey Veen are operating the two oil trucks and left here just after midnight Sunday on their first trip.

Another business change is the leasing by H.J. Fromm of the premises of J. D. Hall next to Hervey's Blacksmith Shop. Hyrum's plans are a little indefinite, but he will continue his Dodge dealership and will repair his trade ins for sale in the premises. Other lines may be entered into as the seas on approaches, but this is as much as is definite yet.

We wish these individuals success in their undertakings, and the expansion would seem to indicate that there is steady growth taking place in the business needs of our town and district, whether we fully realize and appreciate it or not.

RAYMOND TO STAMPEDE JUNE 30th and JULY 1st

The Board of Trade met on Thursday night with a attendance of 15 and went through quite a bit of accumulated business as it had been some time since a business meeting was convened.

The minutes of the last meeting were read, also the Financial statement of the Board and of last year's Stampede and all were accepted. In view of the opposition we had from the Stakelead Stampede last year, the meeting felt that we did well to come out on top, as we did. A hearty vote of thanks was extended Ray Knight and Jas. E. Meeks who furnish livestock for our Stampede and whose help means so much, for the splendid spirit of co-operation they always showed toward the Board of Trade and Stampede.

A motion was passed setting June 30 and July 1, Friday and Saturday, as dates for the 1939 Stampede, and the same motion asked that the Stampede Committee and Executive meet and bring in a recommended program and expenditure sheet for the April meeting. Clark Lund and Raymond Bascom were added to the Stampede Committee. A delegation headed by Ray Knight was asked to attend the Southern Zone Stampede Manager's meeting in Lethbridge Saturday and Ray Knight was asked to represent the Raymond Stampede at the Calgary meeting.

John F. Salmon, Chairman of the Roads Committee gave a very encouraging report on the activities of this committee and said progress was being made on every project they were working for. A motion of commendation to the Committee passed unanimously and the meeting asked that they continue their good work.

Meeting adjourned at 10:15.

With 98 in attendance from Magrath, Cardston, Lethbridge and Raymond, the annual Ladies night of the Raymond Rotary Club was an outstanding success. Besides the local Rotary Club members and their ladies, Rotary members, and partners from Lethbridge and Cardston, the Lions Club members and their partners were here practically 100 p.c. making an attendance of 98 all together.

Arrangements had been made for 75 in the Boy Scouts room, and when the attendance commenced to surpass that figure, the overflow was seated at a table by themselves in the main hall, and then after the supper, all gathered again in the Boy Scout room of the 2nd Ward Church for the program.

Lee Brewerton, President of the local Club, welcomed the visitors, and Tom Mitton, President of the Lethbridge Club and G. V. Balderson, President of the Lions Club of Magrath replied on behalf of the visitors. These two also introduced the members of their Clubs.

Heber Allen was Master of Ceremonies and Toasts and speeches were made by L. L. Pack, Jas. E. Meeks, T. Geo. Wood and A. H. Zabriskie. Community singing was also enjoyed by the group.

At the conclusion of the program, dancing was enjoyed with the remainder of the townspeople in the recreation hall of the Church.

A fine spirit of fellowship and good will prevailed at the Ladies night and this is but the beginning of many enjoyable and profitable get-togethers of the service Clubs in Lethbridge, Magrath Cardston and Raymond.

The 2nd Ward ladies are to be complimented on the splendid job they did of catering to the hungry Rotarians, Lions and their partners, and the visitors and home folks were all high in their praise of the sumptuous supper served.

Mrs. E. Kessler, formerly of Diamond City, now of Provo, Utah, spent part of the week here with Mrs. L. L. Anderson and family. Mrs. Kessler and Mrs. Anderson were missionary acquaintances.

HONORED GUESTS DAY WEDNESDAY

Raymond's Honored Guests will be feted by the Committee at the annual party in the Opera House next Wednesday afternoon from 1 p.m. until midnight when the married folks dance brings the day to a close. Invitations have been printed and are being sent to the honored guests now, and the committees on entertainment, refreshments, etc., are busy getting things in readiness for the annual event, which is the highlight of the year for many of our elderly people. Each year sees a thinning of the ranks as a few of these honored people pass to their reward, but the joviality of the day and the memories that it recalls to the minds of those who attend make it very worth while and long remembered.

This year the committees are doing everything possible to make this the best day the Honored Guests have ever had. They will have some job to surpass what has been done, as for years now, these parties have been just about all that could be asked for and have always been greatly enjoyed by those attending.

ANOTHER SPRING — ANOTHER CHANCE

Mother Nature is donning her spring garb now, and before many weeks will be busy with her green paint and brush, freshening up everything, calling to life the sleeping trees, grass and what not, and even reinvigorating, if they ever need it, the housefly and mosquito, getting everything ready for spring and GROWTH.

To humanity, too, comes another chance. Our failures, disappointments and discouragements of the past, should definitely be past. This year is ours. We have another chance to progress to achieve, to accomplish that long cherished dream and make of the future what we want it to be.

Hope springs eternal in the human breast, and about the most useless and hopeless of all is he or she who has lost hope. History is replete with examples of those who, building on the failures of others have made outstanding successes of their lives and in doing so have helped others to help themselves. We were struck by a remark of Ray Knight in Monday evening's social. Ray said his father, Jesse Knight, always had a two fold purpose in everything he undertook, he wanted to help himself and he wanted to help others. His father figured that every time you helped someone else you were helping yourself, and that only by helping others could one achieve any lasting and permanent success. This is a thought that will bear a great deal of thought and study. We all want to arrive, but we forget that in the journey of life we are bound to have flat tires, run out of gas, need our valves ground and so on, and when these seeming calamities overtake us, then a tow by a good friend is worth a lot. Well, let's try and give the other fellow a tow when he needs it and we can, and then when we need help it will be forthcoming.

So, live this year as fully as possible. If you have your failures of the past, bury them deep where they will be forgotten and start anew. If you grow a garden, make it a good one; if you farm your land do it well; if you keep a dairy herd, milk them well and regularly, and above all love your work. If you don't like it and can't change, then learn to like it and see what a world of difference it makes in your day's efforts.

There are things we meet in life that we can't change, but we can change to meet the situation, no matter how difficult. Possibly this is the secret of success in life. Not in having things made to our order, but in making ourselves to fill the order we have to take. Worth thinking about anyway, and if this attitude would make successes where today we are failures, then it would certainly be worth making a part of our lives. To an extent we may be creatures of circumstance. There may be things we can't control. But when we sit down and give up, kidding ourselves into thinking we have no chance we are about 99 p.c. gone and while we may still be breathing we are dead from the ears up. Every day brings new needs and new opportunities. Which will supply these needs and grasp these opportunities. Only he who fights on. "A winner never quits and a quitter never wins." is a favorite saying of one of our prominent citizens, and we believe holds the secret of success in life. Keep going.

Head Clerk: "I am sorry to hear of your partner's death. Would you like me to take his place?"

Manager: "Very much, if you can get the undertaker to arrange it."

KING GEORGE VI

CHAPTER TEN

—Lord Horatio Nelson.

It is impossible to relate in a short chapter the exact role that was played by the Royal Fleet in the World War of 1914-1918, but it is sufficient to remark that the British Navy was directly responsible for keeping alive the faith, power and hope of the Allies in those dark days when the international conflict threatened to destroy the fire of civilization. The Royal Navy assured the transport of millions of men, horses, rifles, vehicles, supplies, and other necessities; it organized and carried out the famous convoy system that brought the huge expeditionary forces from Canada and the United States with the loss of only a few hundred lives; it guarded the waterways throughout the world and protected the merchant ships against the submarines; it blocked the Belgium coastal bases which were used by the Germans and this saved many millions of people from a slow death through starvation. But all these achievements would never have been accomplished if the British Navy had not won the great naval engagement at Jutland where Britain retained the mastery of the seas and the German Fleet could not leave its base.

One of the ships which engaged in this great historical battle was the Collingwood and one of the men serving in the battleship's turret was Prince Albert who had joined the crew only a few weeks before this important battle. He was assigned to "A" 12-inch fore-turret and in these surroundings he spent that historic day and night when the balance of sea power of the world's big nations was at stake. Anyone who knows how battleships are operated will not hesitate to state that duty in the ship's turret requires a very strong hand and steady nervous system because the men in this close, steel confinement do not know exactly what is going on and they merely follow out the orders which are given to them by the officer who is in control of the gunnery. The latter directs the operations through a telephonic system and just as soon as the target is discovered the turret crew arrange the shot of the huge shell.

King George the Sixth has always retained the little white ensign which the Collingwood flew in this historic battle of Jutland and there is no doubt that it often reminds His Majesty of his duties aboard the battleship in this great and decisive naval engagement of the World War, when the ship fired no less than eighty-four rounds of ammunition.

The young Prince was mentioned in the official despatches for his remarkable bravery under fire. However, his progress in the Royal Navy was once a confirmed brink-quiverer. I am perpetually quivering on the brink of a whale of a big something that is going to come to me. The thing that is coming is usually the materialization of an ideal I have long held — I learned to get my chief pleasure in life from anticipating some ideal situations. Let me once stop hoping and I'll do as others do who stop hoping—go off the deep end, stating truthfully "Here goes nothing." But I shall never lose the power to hope. It makes a heaven of earth — Strickland Gillilan in the Rotarian Magazine.

QUOTABLE QUOTES

BRINK-QUIVERING —I am

Well, it's March. It came in mildly and beautifully. If it goes out like a lion we should not complain. After all we have had about two weeks of winter and the rest of the time has been like autumn.

EDUCATION IN

FAMILY LIFE
The first in a series of lessons in "Education in Family Life" was held in the 2nd Ward meeting house under the auspices of the Relief Society, on the evening of Feb. 22nd.

There were about fifty married couples present. Mrs. Fred Romeril in the chair, with Mrs. Elsie S. Smith, as class leader.

The subject under discussion was "Family Relationships" under five headings, which were treated by Milton Strong, Irene Bowden, Vella Holt, Muriel Terry and Joseph McLean.

Great interest was shown in the topics under discussion and the next meeting was billed for March 15th.

The class lasted one hour and the floor was then cleared for a dance.

Refreshments were served, and a very enjoyable evening was climaxed with the Lambeth Walk, Mr. Thos. Allan and Mrs. Ema Dahl supplying the music.

A Method of Detecting Swarm Preparations

The instinct that urges bees to build queen cells for swarming is their natural way of propagating their race and develops when the brood chamber or brood nest proper of the colony becomes crowded with young bees. To relieve the crowded condition, queen cells are built to produce queens to carry on the work in the home hive when the old queen swarms out with her old bees in search of a new home. Thus they relieve the congestion in the old colony.

Queen cells are sometimes built for another purpose than for swarming and that is for replacing or superseding failing queens. Close observation of queen cells has shown that the purpose for which queen cells are built often may be detected by their location in the hive. Superseding cells did not appear to be produced in so great numbers on the combs as did cells for swarming and were usually found located well protected on the brood combs deep in the brood nest. Cells for swarming seemingly were found on any location in the hive, on the faces of the brood combs, on lower edges of the brood frames and some were found on the edges of the honey combs.

The possibility of detecting preparations of the colony for swarming, by noting the position of queen cells, was observed several years ago. Because of this, a project was started in 1925 to ascertain if preparations for swarming or nature of queen cells could be detected by use of the double brood chamber thereby reducing the time required for making examinations. The method of procedure was that soon as colonies in ten-frame Langstroth brood chambers showed signs of congestion or crowding in the spring, a shallow super was added to each brood chamber without a queen excluder between the two chambers. At the regular examination of colonies, every nine or ten days, the shallow super was tipped from the rear and if queen cells were present along the lower edges of the combs, this was taken as an indication that the colony was preparing for swarming and was treated by one of the outlined methods of swarm control. If there were no queen cells visible every comb in the lower chamber was examined for queen cells. If any cells were found on those combs they were not disturbed but their positions on the combs were carefully noted and the colony watched for swarming.

During thirteen consecutive years a total of 302 colonies was observed and records were kept of positions in which queen cells were built and their ultimate development in the respect of positions. There were 153 of the 302 colonies that did not build cells for swarming; 127 built queen cells on the lower edges of the frames in the shallow supers, all of which were found by tipping the super and required treatment for swarm control; 29 built queen cells on the lower chamber, 26 of which superseded their queen without swarms. The other three swarmed out because of a multiple number of queen cells being present and replaced their old queens with young ones at the time of swarming. From this data it would appear that the bees have a definite idea of where and why they place their queen cells.

Our Edmonton Letter

(T. B. Windross)

Edmonton, Feb. 27.—Alberta's budget for the fiscal year 1939-1940 holds major attention of the legislature and of the province this week. Presented Monday by Provincial Treasurer Solon E. Low, it tells taxpayers how much more they are going to have to pay to their government during the year.

No important legislation having been introduced, or even being in prospect this session, it was expected generally by observers that the debate on the budget would proceed during the week unhampered, and that it might prove to be the high point of the session.

The reply to the speech from the throne which by practice is the outstanding annual test of a government's strength in the legislature, was adopted last Thursday, with only about half the members of the House present to vote. The count on it was 30 in favor and five against.

Then came the report of the legislature's redistribution committee, recommending that the legislature be reduced from 63 to 57 members through the elimination of 11 constituencies and the creation of seven new ones, with Edmonton and Calgary each to have five members instead of the present six. The committee's report was adopted without a recorded vote but it is known that the proposed elimination of ridings, which would mean that some present members would have no chance to run in the next election, has caused ill-feeling in the Social Credit caucus.

The present ridings which would be eliminated under the terms of the report, and the sitting members for them, are these:

Riverton (A. L. Blee); Innisfail (A. E. MacLellan); Bow Valley (W. E. Cain); Empress (David Lush); Acadia (N. B. James); Coronation (G. L. MacLachlan); Rocky Mountain (E. O. Duke); Nanton-Claresholm (H. O. Haslam); Sturgeon (J. M. Popil); Victoria (Samuel Calvert); Whitford (William Tomlyn).

Every one of those members is a Social Credit-er. Five of them were known as Insurgents at the time of the 1937 caucus rebellion against Premier Aberhart. On the other hand, the ridings of several members of that Insurgent group, remain untouched, while the seats of some members who up to this time have been believed to have the favor of the government are wiped out.

The new ridings would be Valley-Empress, to take in possibly either Mr. Cain or Mr. Lush; Acadia-Coronation, which might accommodate either Mr. James or Mr. MacLachlan; Willingdon, Bruce, Spirit River, Redwater and a revamped riding of Rocky Mountain House.

Although the house has adopted the report, it would have no effect unless legislation is enacted to carry out the terms in a statute to amend the present legislature act.

Hon. N. E. Tanner, minister of lands and mines, said on his return from Ottawa conferences that he had discussed with federal government members the proposal of British financial interests for establishment of a pipeline from Turner Valley field to the Great Lakes for transportation of oil, but added that he could say nothing in regard to the discussions.

It is known that if such a pipeline were built, the British navy would be almost certain to become a heavy buyer of Turner Valley oil, which would mean that Alberta industry and the safety of the British empire would be benefited at the same time. It is also considered certain, however, that in view of the Alberta government's reputation in British financial circles and in view of Alberta's recent threats to burden the oil industry here with more government interference, the province cannot expect more development of her oil resources until the government gives some proof of good faith and a guarantee that investment will not be confiscated.

In as much as the McGillivray commission was appointed to proceed toward government "regulation" of the industry, the premier's threat was not unexpected. It has not been explained, however, how one such government will be able to regulate the affairs of an industry which is so sensitive to world conditions and which frequently must change its policies overnight to meet sudden situations. It is clear now to observers that such regulation would cause government worry in the future.

Decision of the Alberta Conservative party, at its provincial convention in Calgary last Saturday, to throw in its lot with the Unity movement and to submerge its own identity, to the extent of nominating no Conservative candidates in the next provincial election was greeted in non-partisan political circles here as an important development in Alberta politics and as a big step in ousting the Aberhart government when the chance comes. R. W. Ward, of Calgary, was elected president of the Conservative Association and in the meantime D. M. Dugan is to continue as provincial leader.

ODD BUT TRUE

"Have you noticed a very odd thing about blunt people?" Freeman asked his friend.

"Can't say that I have," said the latter. "They are certainly rather embarrassing at times."

Freeman nodded pensively. "Yes, but hasn't it ever struck you that they are the ones who generally come to the point first," he said.

"So you're out of work and want help? What's your trade?"

"I'm a painter, mister."

"Painter eh? Well, now, my car needs painting. What would you charge to do that job?"

"Two dollars an hour."

"Two dollars an hour? Why, I wouldn't pay Michelangelo two dollars an hour in times like these."

"Well, mister, I don't know this Michelangelo; but if he paints cars at less than two dollars an hour he don't belong to the union."

Pope Pius XI and Canadian Rockies

In his earlier days the late Pope Plus XI achieved considerable fame as a mountaineer and scaled most of the well-known Alpine peaks. After his accession to the Papal Throne he one day told a party of Canadians visiting in Rome that he had always been interested in the Canadian Rockies and that at one time he had hoped to visit them. There were several mountains there, he said, that he would very much have liked to climb.

The fates directed his path to other heights culminating in the Chair of St. Peter, but the story was brought back to Canada and at the direction of Sir Edward Beatty a collection of photographs of the Rockies was bound together in a handsome portfolio of white calf-skin and presented to His Holiness with the compliments of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Sir Edward received a most courteous and kindly acknowledgment which is now preserved in the Company's archives.

LIBRARY NEWS

New books at the Library include the following:

"The Brother of Ashkenazi," by J. J. Singer, translated from the Yiddish and claimed to be the greatest novel of today. The critics compare it with Tolstoy's "War and Peace."

"The Lamp in the Valley" by Stringer. Out of the Klondyke country comes a novel of love and hope. Carol Coburn was born in the Klondyke, daughter of a brush-rat. "Old Klondyke Coburn" they called him, always dreaming of the big strike. He sent Carol "outside" to be educated in the way of books. Her father's death on the trail prompted her to return and try and do for the Klondyke what the "outside" did for her. On the steamer north she met Sidney Lander, a mining engineer going into her own land. They both find themselves at Matanuska Valley where the Government planted its settlement project. When Carol came to the valley there was no school, so she went from house to house teaching the children, bearing the lamp of learning, she being "The Lamp in the Valley."

"Guns Along the Border," a Western story by Snow.

"The Way of the Scarlet Pimpernel," by Orey.

"Such Sweet Compulsion" by Farrar, donated by the Book Lover's Score.

"Anne of Aronlea" by Montgomery.

"Anne's House of Dreams," by Montgomery.

"Pollyanna's Debt of Honor" by Smith.

"The Hidden Staircase," by Keene.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. S. Schow of Cardston were week-end visitors with their son Sidney and family here in Raymond.

When dismantling the Stake House Thursday, D. G. Selman removed a board with the following written in it in lead pencil, "Raymond Meeting House; this house will be finished tomorrow if it doesn't rain, Dec. 10, 1902" and signed Jimmie McDeal. The writing was as plain as though it had been newly written and the board is being kept as a souvenir. We wonder just what kind of weather they were having in December of 1902.

Playoffs in the Senior Seven Hockey league are under way. Drumheller has defeated Turner Valley twice to win a playoff berth, and in the game at Lethbridge Wednesday night between Olds and the Lethbridge Leafs, Olds won by a 3-1 score. Their next game takes place Saturday night in Calgary.

Raymond 2nd Ward's Supper and Dance was a decided success last Friday night. About 700 were served supper, and the hall where the program was held and the dance floor were kept filled until well into the night.

Karl Lybbert and Donny Nilsson, of the Klondyke, are now in Raymond with two truckloads of furniture. Mr. and Mrs. Karl Lybbert will make their future home in that district.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Garner are home from their trip to San Francisco and the World's Fair there. Arthur, hurrying home to the bedside of his mother who is very ill at present and has been for the past week.

As we go to press today a beautiful spring snow storm is in progress, having started in the early morning hours. It is not very cold and the snow is coming on the wings of a mild north wind.

COMETS LOSE TO
L. C. I. 31-27 SCORE

Playing before a capacity house in the Opera House last Saturday night, the local High School Comets dropped their first playoff game to the L.C.I. by the close score of 31-27. It was a tough defeat for the Comets. Having defeated the Lethbridge boys in both league fixtures, they were hopeful of a win in the playoffs, but the visitors had a little edge on the play, with a loss to the local team, and a margin of four points which the L.C.I. will take into the second game of the series tonight in Lethbridge.

This means the Comets will have to nose out Ev. Borgal's boys by a five point margin if five points if they want to stay in the playoffs, and according to the boys and their coach, it's humanly possible they will do just that thing. A large number of High School pupils are going with the team.

Saturday night's game was full of thrills and it was not won until the last whistle. The score by quarters was: Raymond 2-15-6-4. L.C.I. 7-7-13-4. Analyze these figures and you see that the playing was pretty even and exciting, and the final result might have been more a matter of which team got the breaks rather than any indication of ability on the floor.

The score and players follows: L.C.I.: Sherwood 11; Elton 2; Russell 2; Scott; Greenway 3; Kyle 1; McDonald; Cuthern 1; Pilling 11; Edwards. Total 31. COMETS: Ehler 5; Larson Piepgrass 9; Nalder 5; Rolfsen 3; Zobel; Smith; Zemp; Mel-drum 1; West 4. Total 27.

Fire in the 50 year old Queen's hotel in Halifax was responsible for property damage estimated at $800,000 and a death list that may reach 30, early Thursday morning. An ocean wind made the efforts of firemen practically useless.

Several local Rotarians and their partners journeyed to Lethbridge Thursday night for the Annual Ladies night of the Lethbridge Club. They report a very enjoyable time.

Quite a delegation of local beet growers were in Lethbridge Tuesday to Annual Beet Grower's Convention held there in the Y. M. C. A.

Paysonites are having their Annual Reunion at the 2nd Ward Church Saturday evening. Commencing at 6 p.m. the evening will be spent in luncheon and program concluding with a dance. We understand that all Paysonites and descendants 14 and over are invited. The weatherman is staging his usual sprigg welcome for the Payson people.
